

Dr. Kumuda Karogal

Dr. Kumuda Karogal holds a Ph.D Degree in English awarded by Karnataka University, Dharwad for her thesis entitled “Women characters in Mulk Raj Anand's Short Stories and Novels: A Study” and an M.Phil Degree in English awarded by the Vinayaka Missions University, Salem Tamilnadu for her dissertation titled “Adoption and Adaptation of Myth in Girish Karnad's plays” and a Post Graduate in Diploma in Communicative English from KSOU, Mysuru (distance education). She obtained an M.A. Degree in English Literature and Language from Karnataka University Dharwad in 1989. She has eighteen years’ experience of teaching English. In addition to the above, she has participated and presented research papers in several National/ International/ Conferences/ Seminars/ Workshops. Her research article titled “Women in Mulk Raj Anand's Life”, has been published in an International Journal called “Literary Endeavour”. She is presently working as an Assistant Professor of English in KSLU's Law School.